

Alice Miller is the author of The Limits, published simultaneously by Auckland University Press and Shearsman Books. She was the Associate Editor of The Vienna Review, and has an MA from the International Institute of Modern Letters and an MFA from the Iowa Writers' Workshop, where she was a Glenn Schaeffer Fellow. For her writing, Alice has received the BNZ Katherine Mansfield Award, the Royal Society of NZ Manhire Prize, a Michael King Centre residency, a Grimshaw Sargeson fellowship, and a trip to Antarctica courtesy of Antarctica New Zealand. Her poetry and prose have appeared in Narrative Magazine, Boston Review, Oxford Poetry, The Iowa Review, Best New Zealand Poems, and The American Scholar. Her website is ackmiller.com.